The story behind the Real McCoy:

You have probably heard the phrase “The Real McCoy”, but did you know the origin? Elijah McCoy was an inventor and train engineer in the early 1900s working mostly in Detroit, but born in Colchester (now known as Harrow). His invention for oiling steam-powered train engines was so good that train operators would ask for ‘the Real McCoy’ to avoid being disappointed by knock-offs. We feel that our Cabernet Franc grown here, where Elijah was born, is worthy of the title The Real McCoy.
